STATE CONDEMNS CITY HALL, FIRE STATION

INVESTIGATOR PUTS O. K. ON SUBMISSION OF BOND PROPOSAL

Both Buildings are Beyond Repair, Says
Report.

HELD INSANITARY "Jail Menace to Health; Station is Fire Trap."

Approval of the proposed $200,000 bond issue for a new city hall and fire station, to be submitted to East Liverpool electors at the November 6 election, was given in a letter received by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley, today, from the division of charities, department of public welfare, Columbus, following an investigation in which both structures were condemned.

Fire Station is Decayed.

At the request of Mayor Ralph C. Benedum, Judge Hanley recently wrote to Miss Bell Grove, superintendent of the division of charities, department of public welfare, asking for an inspection of the two buildings. S. C. Griffin, social investigator for the department, came here about two weeks ago.

Both city hall and fire station "have become so decayed, insanitary and inflammable that a recommendation for improvements and repairs would be most imperative," the report declares. Both structures are described as "a menace to health and safety."

Central fire station in St. Clair avenue, where the proposed new fire station will be erected if the $200,000 bond issue is approved, is a fire trap of the worst possible character and a plain threat to all surrounding buildings and "is so decayed that portions of the building are (Continued on page eight, Col. three)

TODAY the world knows the result of the baseball series and now will be paying attention to the campaign. You may know that a nation is doing well when half its citizens are more interested in baseball than in a national election.

A MONTH ago Mrs. Annie Newberg lost her son, drowned trying to save a young girl. Yesterday the mother died of grief. She had walked the floor night after night.

In Chicago, Mrs. Clyde Ryker, only 30 years old, killed her three children and herself with gas.

IN OHIO, at Junction City, 17 convicts are dead in a jail fire. On Saturday 12 men died in New York, five more died Sunday morning, and three Monday afternoon, all killed by bootleg whisky, sold in "slum speakeasies."

New York toxicologists says the 20 men in 24 hours were killed by poisonous denaturants, put in the alcohol by the government.

That alcohol was thoroughly denatured, evidently.

"GOOD TIMES" TO BE KEYNOTE

Nominee Announces His Boston Speech on Monday Night, Oct. 15, Will be on Tariff.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Believing his position clear on the disposition of the government's $100,000,000 Muscle Shoals project, Herbert Hoover turned his attention today to plans for his visit to New York city, October 22.

This address will be the nominee's big effort to win the Empire state away from Governor Al Smith and the speech will be prepared carefully. It was indicated at his headquarters that Republican prosperity, administrative economy and "good times" would be the keynotes of the speech.

Foreign Trade Topic, Too.
Hoover meanwhile announced that his Boston speech, scheduled for Monday night, October 15, will be devoted to the tariff, foreign trade and possibly the merchants marine. This was predicted by International News service last week as Hoover plans to win New England on an appeal to the business instincts of the "Down East" voters.

The candidate will stand upon his Muscle Shoals announcement and undoubtedly will not touch upon that subject again during the remainder of the campaign.

Explains Muscle Shoals Stand.
His position, as explained by one of his advisers, is as follows:

First, Hoover believes in private operation of all utilities on the ground that the government should not compete in business with its citizens, second, that an exception must be made in the case of Muscle Shoals because it is owned by the government.

Third, he will favor use of the project as far as is required, for the manufacture of fertilizer and research work for agriculture.

Fourth, he favors sale of the surplus power to a private distributing company.

Fifth, in any sale of power, he will require terms, not only safeguarding the government's interest but guaranteeing fair treatment of the consuming public by the lessee.

Sixth, he would not oppose a lease of the entire project to a private company if suitable guarantees were obtained to provide for agricultural experiments and both the government's and the consuming public's interests were protected.

Seventh, he would not oppose governmental operation of the project if private companies failed to make fair offers for the huge project.

Dr. Edwin Kirby Will Dedicate Tabernacle For Billy Sunday on Wednesday, October 31

Agreement upon the Rev. Dr. Edwin Kirby of Elyria, Ohio, as the dedicatory speaker for the Billy Sunday tabernacle at Second and Washington streets on Wednesday night, Oct. 31, was reached by members of the executive evangelistic committee in the banquet rooms of the Y. M. C. A. last night.

The fact that Dr. Kirby was president of the 1912 visit of Billy Sunday to East Liverpool and that he is the prime mover in having the evangelist go to Erie for a similar engagement at the conclusion of his revival here influenced the selection of the former pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

FAIL TO FIX PRISON FIRE RESPONSIBILITY

Known Death Toll at Junction City is 15.

BODIES CHARRED

Five Convicts are Still Unaccounted For.

JUNCTION CITY, O., Aug. 10.—The onus of responsibility for death of 15 convicts at the disastrous fire at the brick plant dormitory here Monday was still withheld today with the verdict of Perry County Coroner Dr. F. H. Mitchell, who conducted an inquest, that the prisoners "met death by burning at Ohio state brick plant—cause unknown."

Dr. Mitchell has certified to the recovery of the purported remains of 15 bodies from the debris of a total of 20 missing.

Five are still unaccounted for. The bodies recovered, Dr. Mitchell declares, are blackened and charred beyond any hope of identification.

Funeral Services Tomorrow.

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Oct. 10.—Over a common grave, in which repose 15 baby caskets containing the charred remains of the convicts who were burned to death in the mad stampede for freedom early Monday when the dormitory at the brick plant at Junction City was turned into a blazing inferno, Protestant and Catholic clergymen Thursday will conduct simple funeral services for 15 nameless men.

None of the bodies was positively identified. In many cases only small pieces of charred bone, splintered teeth or smashed skulls were recovered and it has been impossible thus far to determine the proper category for the gruesome remnants.

Twenty prisoners were missing after the fire. Five are still unaccounted for. Whether these five will be found when the pile of debris, all that remains of a dormitory housing 176 men, has been thoroughly combed, is conjectural.

Hint Five Fled.

Deputy Warden H. C. Blosser has declared his emphatic opinion that the entire number perished in the blaze. Other officials incline to the theory that five may have seized the opportunity presented by the pandemonium and confusion following the blaze to have "gone over the wall" (Continued on Page Eight, Col. Six)

LOS ANGELES SOARS HERE ON WAY BACK TO LAKEHURST, N. J.

Huge Airship Returning From Legion Convention in Texas.

SIRENS SOUNDED

Giant Airship Also Visits Steubenville on Ohio Jump.

Enroute from San Antonio, Texas, back to its hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., the navy's giant dirigible, Los Angeles, made its twice-postponed visit to East Liverpool at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon.

FALLS DEAD AS AIRSHIP PASSES

SANDUSKY, O., Oct. 10.—Anthony Loth, 60, retired business man, was among the thousands who watched the navy dirigible Los Angeles fly over Sandusky shortly before noon today.

As Loth was entering his home, after one last look at the big bag, he staggered and fell dead of heart disease. The excitement was too much for him, in the opinion of physicians and Coroner A. R. Grier-son.

The "silver pencil" as the craft is sometimes called, came here from Youngstown. Its arrival was heralded by the blowing of the fire sirens in the Diamond and at Fifth street and Broadway. The low hum of the ship's motors could be plainly heard as the ship soared over the city, headed in the direction of Pittsburgh.

Notice of the ship's expected visit to East Liverpool was given at 4:45 o'clock this morning from Congressman Frank Murphy, Steubenville, after the latter had received a telegram from Admiral C. F. Hughes, head of the navigation department of the navy, at Washington, announcing the dirigible's visit to "Ohio cities" this afternoon, with "weather permitting."

Airplanes Escort Ship.

Frank Swaney, member of the aviation committee of the Chamber of Commerce, called the Ellwood City, Pa., airport, following the receipt of word from Steubenville, asking that two airplanes be sent here to escort the dirigible.

Legion convention. It reached Cleveland at 10 o'clock this morning and at 11:12 o'clock was sighted over Akron, headed south.

The visit of the dirigible to the Chamber of Commerce airport in Madison township on August 23 and 31 was postponed because of threatening weather. Following the second postponement the navy department promised that the "Ohio dates" would be filled in October "when the weather was more settled."

Akron Sees Dirigible.

AKRON, Oct. 10.—The navy dirigible Los Angeles passed over Stow air field near here at 11:12 o'clock this morning. Though the big airship is expected to fly over Pittsburgh, it headed south from here and officials at the airport said it would have to change its present course to reach the Pennsylvania city.

GRAF ZEPPELIN HOPS FRIDAY

Super-dirigible Awaits Word to Fly Over Atlantic.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Oct. 10.—This was an idle day for the super-dirigible Graf (Count) Zeppelin, and the meteorological charts showed the weather to be so stormy over the Atlantic that it appeared unlikely that the giantess could leave on its voyage to the United States before Friday.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, designer of the "Graf" and director of the trans-Atlantic flight, said that the Atlantic weather was showing little improvement. He had hoped to get away tomorrow but the weather news during the afternoon made the prospects for a take-off doubtful.

A 20-mile ground wind was blowing here, preventing the Zeppelin from making a local flight.

INTRODUCTION OF THE NEW KONJOLA MEDICINE HAILED

Many People Calling At All The Carnahan Drug Stores To Learn Its Merits.

Immediately following yesterday's announcement that the advance medical preparation, Konjola, was to be introduced in East Liverpool, many local people were eagerly seeking this medicine and telling of reports about it

G. H. MOSBY

which they had received from relatives and friends in Cincinnati and other large cities where the herbal compound was previously introduced. Many who called at all the Carnahan Drug Stores, stated they already knew about this medicine and some had secured it thru acquaintances at larger cities.

The extent to which this Konjola has aroused interest proves very clearly that health troubles, due to disordered stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, are so common that hundreds are suffering daily. The forms of misery described by a great many sufferers interviewed yesterday, were as follows:

STOMACH: Indigestion and gas bloating, feeling like a rock in the stomach, which in reality is a mass of undigested food, dyspepsia, intense pain in the stomach and chest, wild heart palpitation, feeling like a rock from the throat to the pit of the stomach, awful headaches, loss of weight, strength and tissue, sour stomach, dizzy spells, cramps, spitting up bits of half-digested food and a hot, sour liquid.

LIVER: Attacks of biliousness, sick headaches that may last for days, constipation, dizzy spells, yellowish complexion.

KIDNEYS: Sharp pains over the kidneys, a dull, aching feeling across the back, stiffness in the back and lower limbs, especially in the mornings just before arising, frequent getting out of bed during the night, dizziness, spots before the eyes, lack of vitality.

BOWELS: Painful, bloated feeling in the lower stomach, worn out feeling, sleeplessness.

Many other forms of suffering arise from the disordered condition of the system that results from a sluggish stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. For instance, there may be rheumatic and neuritis troubles, with its agonizing aches and pains.

The above forms of suffering yield readily to the work of Konjola and this medical preparation has so completely ended the health troubles of so many thousands in larger cities that it is declared to be what countless sufferers in this section have long needed to actually reach their cases.

Konjola is now being sold for the first time in East Liverpool at all the Carnahan Drug Stores, where many people are calling throughout the day to find out about this surprising new medicine.

They were married at Lisbon, Oct. 9, 1925. The plaintiff charges gross neglect of duty. The court is asked to grant a decree and restore the plaintiff to her maiden name, Elsie M. Coburn.

Mrs. Mary Stillwell, in a divorce petition filed against her husband, Lindell Stillwell, by Attorney Frank H. Hoover, charges extreme cruelty. They were married at New Cumberland, W. Va., Feb. 12, 1923, have one child, aged 5. It is charged by the plaintiff that on Oct. 4, last the defendant threatened to take her life. Gross neglect of duty is also alleged. Alimony and the custody of the minor child are asked.

Lucy J. Calvin, of Columbiana, through her counsel, C. C. Connell, of Lisbon, has filed a petition for divorce against her husband, Crayton V. Calvin of Beaver Falls, Pa. They were married Sept. 19, 1905. Gross neglect of duty is charged.

MOTIONS FILED IN FOUR CASES

Leave to the defendant to file an answer at once has been granted by the court in the $50,000 damage case of Ronald Joy Kinsey against Murray G. McDewitt.

A motion to strike out the second paragraph in the alimony petition filed by Florence V. McClure against Ernest H. McClure of East Palestine has been sustained by the court.

The motion to the petition has been overruled in the $10,000 damage case of Earl H. McKinnon against Albert W. Oyster and others.

In the case of the Firestone bank of Lisbon against Josiah W. Craig and others, the court has sustained the motion of the plaintiff to dismiss the action as it relates to J. S. Russell, Elizabeth and Clara McCullough.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts.

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them into activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

Yankees World Champions Again

For the second successive time Miller Huggins' New York Yankees, including George Herman Ruth, the home run king, and Lou Gehrig, his understudy in long distance clouting, are winners of the baseball classic and the world's championship title that goes with it.

Outclassed in every department of the game, notwithstanding the splendid pitching exhibitions by Wee Willie Sherdel, who made two courageous attempts to stop the heavy artillery of the Ruppert clan, the St. Louis Cardinals, favorites at the start of the series, did not make the battle any more interesting than the Pittsburgh Pirates did a year ago. The McKechnie team, seemingly, did not have a chance.

National league fans probably will spend the winter debating Umpire Pfrman's ruling against the quick delivery of Sherdel just prior to Babe Ruth's second home run in the seventh inning. The clever southpaw shot a ball across the plate while the mighty Babe was looking at the scoreboard, but instead of a third strike it proved "nothing," for the umpire had previously held up his hand for "time." And then came the smash that tied the score and started Sherdel on his trip to the showers.

"We have no alibi," said Bill McKechnie after the fourth and deciding game. And that is the story in a nutshell. A better team won the title, and it probably will continue to win American league pennants and world's championship so long as men of the calibre of Ruth, Gehrig and Hoyt are members of the club.

Judges' Salary Proposal

Governor Donahey has announced that he will campaign against the initiated constitutional amendment permitting judges to draw salary increases voted to them during their terms of office, a course blocked by the constitution of Ohio as it stands today, and to this end he has named himself a member of the committee selected to prepare arguments against the proposal, which, in part, reads:

"The compensation for such judges, provided by law, shall not be diminished or increased during the term of office of such judges except that, whenever any law now existing or hereinafter enacted, changing the salary or compensation of judges of the supreme court, court of appeals, the common pleas court, the probate court, the municipal court of any municipality, or any other court established by law, becomes effective as to any judge of the courts enumerated, then such law shall be deemed equally effective and in operation as to all judges of such courts, notwithstanding the provisions of Section 20 of Article II of the Constitution of Ohio."

Should this amendment reap the approval of the voters of Ohio, it would make operative the provisions of the Ott bill passed by the general assembly last year, vetoed by Governor Donahey and passed over his veto.

The bill increased the salary of the chief justice of the Ohio supreme court from $9,000 to $12,000 annually and the salaries of the other justices of the court from $8,000 to $12,000. There is no question of this, but in his veto message Governor Donahey held that the bill permits increases of the salaries of the judges of courts of appeal from $8,000 to a maximum of $12,000 and of common pleas judges to a maximum of $12,000 in a Cuyahoga county.

The constitutional impediment against the changing of the salary during the term of office of an incumbent is a good one, demonstrated to be such through the years since it became a constitutional provision. The provision now a part of the constitution works two ways: It not only protects the taxpayers, but officials as well. Voters await the argument on the proposal.

American-educated Bride

While Americans are not usually much concerned when royalty across the seas assume the bonds of wedlock, the recent union of Prince Chichibu, heir presumptive to the throne of Nippon, and Miss Setsu Matsudaira, daughter of the former ambassador to the United States, and recently a schoolgirl at Washington, has a significance which commands some attention.

It may be a possibility somewhat remote, but not altogether an improbability that the little lady may be the mother of a future emperor of Japan, without much doubt at least of a future statesman. In his impressionable years he cannot fail to absorb the favorable impression of our country which his mother gained in hers. Furthermore, in these days of enlightened Japan, it is probable, too, that the prince, her husband, known already for his democratic tendencies and modern progressiveness, may learn some things about America which will go far in promoting those feelings of friendship which come with a complete understanding and help much in promoting accord between nations.

U. S. Highway Building

With the cooperation of state highway departments, 8,184 miles of federal aid roads were improved in the fiscal year of 1927-1928, and 2,614 miles that had been previously improved by federal aid were given surfaces of a higher type. This information has just been made public by the bureau of roads, United States department of agriculture. The work was done at a cost of $205,043,784, of which the federal government gave $88,055,984, or 43 per cent. The several states paid the balance.

Federal aid highways are said to be the most heavily traveled in the country. Increased demands of a growing traffic are shown by the greater increases in the types more suitable for heavy traffic.

When one considers that of some years ago the highway system of the United States was a hit-and-miss affair, that no real effort had been made to link cities or counties or states, and that the traveler overland set out at his own risk for wherever he was going, the tremendous amount of money now being put into all-weather roads may wisely be considered funds well spent. There is nothing which will improve contiguous property so much as hard-surfaced highways, and gradually all the roads of the nation, which carry any travel at all, are being so prepared.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 10.—The presidential election of 1840 was fought without an issue. The opposition to the dominant Democratic party was made up of so many diverse elements that it was impossible to adopt a platform upon which all could unite. Therefore the Whigs passed up the making of a platform, nominated a war hero, and set about a campaign of clamor with victory as its only object.

When the Democratic convention tried to nominate a vice president to run with Van Buren, there was a hopeless split. Vice-president Johnson had been elected to that position by the senate. The convention adjourned without choosing a vice-presidential candidate.

There have been two occasions in the history of the presidency when an unfortunate remark by the opposition gave a party its cue and swept it into the White house. One of these was when the editor of a Baltimore paper wrote of William Henry Harrison that if he were given a barrel of hard cider and a pension of two thousand dollars a year he would sit content by his sea coal fire in his log cabin in Ohio the rest of his days and study moral philosophy.

The Whigs held their national convention the first week in December, 1839. Henry Clay was again in the race, but his Free-soilism weakened him in the east and his tariff views hampered him in the south. Clay wanted to be president, but he early announced himself to be for the man who had the best show to win. He wrote that if his name should create any obstacle to union and harmony, then "away with it." Clay led on the first ballot, but Harrison was nominated on the third. John Tyler was nominated for vice president, it was claimed, as a result of a deal over a Virginia senatorship. He and William C. Rives were candidates for the senatorship in 1839. Clay agreed with Tyler that if he would leave the senatorship to Rives, he would use his best efforts to put Tyler into the vice presidency.

The Whigs worked themselves into a fine frenzy over their candidate. They built log cabins on wheels with bunks in them for traveling campaigners; cities and towns had Whig cabin raisings and house-warmings. Miniature cabins with a barrel of hard cider, and a coon-skin nailed on a piece of plank by the door were everywhere in evidence.

In attacking Van Buren they exclaimed from every hustling: "What do you think of the democracy of a president who sleeps on French bedsteads, walks on Royal Wilton carpets, eats his pate de foie gras from silver plates with forks of gold, dips his soup a la Reine with a gold ladle from a silver tureen, and rides in a gilded maroon coach of British make?"

The Democrats forced the Whig candidate to take the stump, and thus started the American custom of presidential candidates devoting much of their time to speechmaking.

Horace Greeley became editor of the Log Cabin that year, and his trenchant editorials and sharp paragraphs were copied by Whig journals throughout the country. His paper was a repository of more campaign slogans and political songs than any other campaign paper ever brought out. It mattered not that Johnson, the vice-presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket, with his own hand had slain Tecumseh, the chieftain for whose defeat Harrison became Tippecanoe. He could not get into the hero class with Harrison at all, and in spite of the fact that his friends tried to make the most of his feat, the hero-worship still continued with Harrison.

Tippecanoe and Tyler Too was the popular slogan. The early states to vote were carried by the Whigs, and while Harrison's popular majority was not great, he won 19 of the 26 states, including most of the big ones. Van Buren won only New Hampshire, Virginia, South Carolina, Alabama, Illinois, Missouri, and Arkansas. The electoral vote was 234 to 60.

The log cabin and hard cider hero had been sung and shouted into the White house, where he lived only a month. John Tyler, who was not much of a Whig at any time, but really an anti-Jackson Democrat, reaped the fruits of victory, and thoroughly upset the party which had worked so strenuously for victory.

Tomorrow: The Two-Tirds Rule and Democracy Sundered.

Questions And Answers

The answers to questions printed here each day are specimens picked from the mass of inquiries handled by our great Information Bureau maintained in Washington, D. C. This valuable service is for the free use of the public. Ask any question of fact you may want to know and you will get an immediate reply. Write plainly, enclose two cents in coin or stamps for return postage, and address the East Liverpool Review Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. What is meant by the gift of tongues? E. P.
A. It is a special divine or spiritual gift attributed to some of the Christians of New Testament times, the precise nature of which is uncertain but was apparently a kind of ecstatic utterance usually unintelligible to the hearers and even to the speakers. It therefore required interpretation. Phenomena similar to this have been attributed in modern times to some figures in religious history.

Q. Please describe the Durer medal. A. N.
A. A medal has been struck by the Bavarian State mint at Munich in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the birth of the German master, Albert Durer. The Germanic Museum in Nurnberg will distribute these coins in the size of a five mark piece, silver and gold. The obverse shows the head of Durer, with suitable inscriptions, and the reverse, the coat of arms of Durer and Nurnberg.

Q. Please tell me how to get moths out of a fur collar. L. M.
A. There are several methods that can be followed. A simple one is to place the fur over a warm radiator or on the top of a lighted gas oven with a very low flame. The moths will come to the surface and may be brushed off. Place the garment in the sun for several days.

Q. What means of propulsion does the porpoise use when swimming? S. W.
A. A porpoise propels itself by means of its tail. The dorsal fin is used in guiding.

Q. How many permanent waves were given last year? S. E. G.
A. The American Hairdresser says "Not more than 2,000,000 heads were permanently waved in the United States in 1927."

NEW YORK Day By Day
By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—A most perplexing thing about big executive jobs in New York is how easy they are to fill in emergency. It is true that opportunity makes the man, but judging from a few incidents recently that hit the nail on its widely discussed head.

The $100,000 a year executive of an established concern a year ago decided he had enough of business and its anxieties and resigned over night. Grave conferences were held as to his successor. Tempting offers were made to several recognized executives.

In the end, as a mere temporary expedient, the son-in-law of the founder was drafted into service. He was one of those tennis playing enthusiasts with buck-teeth and oiled hair usually found in flanneled ease on country club porches. He seemed disturbed by his new duties. And everybody tittered.

Yet in six months he almost revolutionized the business, and at the end of a year doubled its profits. As this is written two branch factories are being built, and the young man is no longer seen among gay haunts that used to know him so well.

The New York theater has an example of a tank-touring press agent who was given the opportunity to produce what was considered a mediocre play on Broadway and became one of the leading producers in a year. Two of the shrewdest money financiers were second rate newspaper reporters.

A chain store organizer who had been bounced from seven successive jobs became a $150,000 a week executive in three months. He accepted the job for a month without salary to show what he could do. "I had no idea I could do it. It was a desperate chance," he said.

Perhaps the most notable example of all was that of a shipping clerk in a safety razor concern. He heard the general manager had resigned and wrote a letter which impressed the owner sufficiently to give him a trial. That was two years ago. Today he is a partner in the concern.

Many chuckles at the "Up From Nowhere" heroes of real life featured in the go-to-it-and-win magazines, and yet they offer more actual romance than heroes in fiction. If fictionalized, we would likely sniff it wasn't possible.

Life continues its pranks disillusions. As one who believed the fan mail of a movie star was delivered daily in trucks, I have the word of a recognized start that his weekly average is never more than 100 letters. Many columnists receive more than that.

Then there is that delusion of mash notes sent to beautiful stage ladies. They are so rare that when received the recipient goes gadding about showing them to whoever will read. Anna Held in her day was said to receive more than any other actress and this was due largely to a provocative song sung with much rolling of eyes at the audience. It rather invited flirtatious advances and many took her seriously.

Writes a New Yorker: "Exactly thirty years ago I went with my wife to a restaurant on 14th street serving a special dinner for 25 cents. Last night I paid $5 each for a dinner not so good including the spinach."

And you were lucky you didn't get a shifting or so of sand in the spinach these days.

Many of us who remember the 65-cent dinners of fifteen years ago with a bottle of free red or white wine—but why revive all that. There are some still living who can even remember when druggists were druggists.

Indeed I can remember back before the pocket lighter when it was natty to strike a match on the heel without losing a step, but I don't want to play this anymore. I'm going back too far.

YOUR HEALTH
An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.
By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

If I were a good looking young woman or a stalwart young man, it seems to me I should find out how to keep my strength and beauty. As we grow older we mourn the neglect and indifference of our youthful days.

The foundation of the health, vigor and mental capacity of middle and advanced life is laid in childhood and youth. Likewise, the foundation of the ill-health and warped thinking of the adult may be laid in early life.

The trouble about young people is that they are so confident of themselves, so greatly engaged in the enjoyments of youth, that they never think of what may come in old age. Indeed, in the fullness of youth, they really feel they "don't want to live to be old."

But common sense indicates that the majority, or at least a considerable proportion of the flappers and gay lads of today will live into the fifties and sixties and even into the seventies. Have you thought of that? What sort of person will you be at 65 or 70?

Bad teeth, dyspepsia, a poor heart, chronic bronchitis, weakened kidneys, diseased pelvic organs, stiff joints, painful feet—most of these, perhaps all of them and other ailments, are usually traced to youthful neglect.

You will be obliged to live with your body at 70, just as you do at 20. Isn't it worth while to prepare for that remote period of your own existence?

It is a wonderful thing to be alive and young in this remarkable period. Only today I read of a man who has reached his hundredth birthday. In a newspaper interview he praises the youth of 1928, contrasting them with the young people of 80 years ago. The old gentleman would not for the world have our boys and girls live and work and slave as they did then. He tells about the superior beauty and physical welfare of the youth of today.

There can be no doubt that the world is progressing and we are better off by far than were our grandparents. But my plea is for the conservation of these privileges and for a manner of living that will make the old people of the year 2,000, a far better race than we have now.

Young people don't think a great deal about the "race." It is only preachers and doctors in terms. But, listen, you are interested in you! Even though the "race" can go to pot, you are individual members of it. What is to become of you?

You need have no less fun. You need not curtail the essential features of your present day life. It is not for radical restrictions upon your freedom that I plead.

But I do plead for such voluntary regulation of your physical habits that you will not damage that wonderful body or lessen the possibilities of your alert mind.

Most of you who read these words I shall never see. None the less I am interested in your future. I want you to succeed, to succeed in the best sense. Merely to get money is not enough. To marry "brilliantly" is not success.

To have a strong body, free from taint and secret weakness; to have a clean mind, founded on respect for all that is decent; to be able to think straight; to beget healthy children; to be useful and effective in advanced life—can you picture greater success?

Think on these things, dear young people. They are worthy your attention. What you will be a half century from now and what your companions of that day will think about you are determined by an observance of these suggestions.

That's that!

Grade Crossing "Suicides."
It is not a refreshing exhibit which the American Road Builders' association makes of the grade crossing casualties in this nation. Its substance is that within the last ten years 20,427 persons have been killed and 57,625 seriously injured in accidents where highways cross the major steam railroads. This does not include fatalities at electric railway or minor steam railroad crossings, which have their own formidable death toll.

The road association does not moralize on these figures for the reason that they tell their own impressive story. For example, within the last year more than 235 people were killed because the drivers of motor cars ran head-on into the sides of halted or moving trains. They would not take the least pains to stop, look and listen, according to the garish monitors that guard every crossing. Hundreds were killed racing to beat trains to the crossings. But for the most part the thousands who met their death there came to grief because of lack of care in finding out whether a train was approaching, or not.

It is admitted that the grade crossing peril will remain for many years as a thing which can be overcome only by caution on the part of motorists. In conservative language the association says that there are approximately 207,000 unprotected grade crossings on major steam railroads alone. It is economically impossible to complete elimination of these crossings within the very near future. It is possible, however, to eliminate the more dangerous crossings and at the same time continue the education of the motoring public in the value of self-protection when approaching these hazards.

Reduced to plain terms these injunctions mean that if thousands of motorists who will drive carefully want to commit the equivalent of suicide at grade crossings, it is largely their own concern. They have been well warned.—Akron Beacon Journal.

Don't Waste Your Thoughts.
Do you often feel hampered because you cannot give expression to your thoughts and desires?
This may put you in a position where you feel antagonistic toward some of the laws and regulations of society which you must obey.

It is unwise to permit yourself to think long or seriously about the restrictions which the law places upon you.

Your good judgment might be overpowered and you might give way to evil impulses, which might get you into trouble.

As a sane person you know that there must be laws to curb and check desires such as you have. If you entertain those of a lawless nature.

And why should you permit yourself to be disturbed by thoughts which you know are not right?

There are so many pleasing, helpful things, so many elevating things to think of and to enjoy.

There are so many subjects that might be interesting to you if you could find out something about them.

There is too much of good and inspiring things in the world to waste time or thought on sordid subjects.

Lucky?

When she comes to the footlights to acknowledge Broadway's applause of her marvelous dancing in "Sidelwalks of New York," theatre-goers sit forward to admire her youthful charms; the fresh crispness of her rose-petal skin and her gleaming black hair. She's Virginia Clark, of 113 Twenty-third St., Jackson Heights, New York City.

"When friends say I'm lucky to have such clear skin and soft, shining hair," says Miss Clark, "I have to tell them it isn't luck at all. In my case, it's the result of care. For my hair, I use the simple method that's all the rage among New York girls now. It's so easy. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush each time you use it. This makes my scalp feel just grand and keeps away all dandruff. It keeps my hair and scalp so clean I don't have to shampoo nearly as often as I did. It makes my hair soft and easy to dress; holds it in place; and gives it more lustre than brilliantine!"

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color; makes it fairly sparkle. Dandruff disappears when you use Danderine. Waves, set with it, stay in longer. It isn't oily and doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 25c bottles. Over five million used a year!

What Doctors Think of the Laxative Habit

In all history, no Indian was ever known to have constipation. Nor need YOU. He chewed the bark of a tree called cascara. Today we have the candy Cascaret.

Cascarizing the bowels never forms a laxative habit. If already formed, an occasional Cascaret will usually break the habit. For Cascara strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels, and their need of any aid at all grows constantly less. What other cathartic has this characteristic? The writer knows of none.

An evacuation brought gently about by cascara will, nine times in ten, be followed by full functioning of the bowels on the morrow—and for days after. For there is no REACTION as with sickening salts, or any of the man-made purgatives that go through one's system like a bullet.

Physicians tell us cascara is the ideal laxative—and the tongue tell us candy Cascarets are its ideal form. At least a million people know this: what specially parents; because children a tiny there are any who don't! Es-love to take a Cascaret. After which, for days-on-end, the bowels will be seen to work of their own accord.

The only habit from cascara is that of regularity! Cascarets tone and train the bowels. But at the first sign of returning sluggishness another Cascaret is as effective as the first.

There isn't a druggist who hasn't Cascarets, so WHY experiment with laxatives?

This New Radiola — No. 18

Everybody Says Its Simply Wonderful

THE RCA Radiola No. 18, the acknowledged leader in radio set sales, has, in Radiola 18, been made a still finer instrument as a result of the continuous work of the two hundred engineers in the laboratories RCA, General Electric and Westinghouse. Not by virtue of its powerful AC Radiotrons alone, but also because of many new features in design.

Radiola 18 is an even finer radio receiver than the wonderful Radiola 17 which has been purchased by the public as fast as it could be produced ever since October of 1927.

Everything that made the "17" the most popular of all radio sets has been incorporated in the new Radiola 18. Simplified operation direct from the lighting circuit—sturdy construction of the finest materials—substantial volume and realism of tone—finely balanced sensitivity and selectivity—they are all in the new instrument.

But there is still more to be said about Radiola 18.

The laboratory engineers of RCA and its associates have further improved selectivity so that there is sharper tuning, and the cabinet designers have secured a more beautiful result in the solid mahogany case in walnut finish. Escutcheons of new design blend harmoniously with the case.

Tuning is accomplished entirely by one knob. In addition there is a volume control to regulate the output and a switch to turn the current on and off. Over the tuning control, there is a small electric light which not only illuminates the station selector, but also serves as an indicator that the current is on or off.

Can be had in many beautiful cabinets of various designs and finishes.

The new Buick is the new Style

Nowhere such beauty and luxury ---- nowhere such pleasing lines and contours ---- nowhere Bodies that equal these new Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher--The entire country is saying, "That's the Style"

Setting an entirely new, a revolutionary, style—introducing what will unquestionably be the trend of smart body-design during the next several years—the new Bodies of the Silver Anniversary Buick are enjoying universal acclaim as the most original and distinctive, as well as the finest and most beautiful ever created by the world-famous Fisher organization!

Here is not only a new car but a new vogue—a vogue of symmetry, born of gently rounded contours instead of plain straight lines—a vogue of distinction, derived from sparkling colors, brilliant chrome-plated nickel and arresting new roof, radiator and fender design—a vogue of tasteful luxury, composed of finest mohair velvet upholstery, artistic hardware and fittings and new appointments of comfort and convenience not to be found in any other automobile——and the vogue is proving so popular—the motoring public welcoming it so enthusiastically—that this beautiful new Buick continues to outsell all other cars above the very lowest price field by an overwhelming margin!

The entire country is hailing the Silver Anniversary Buick. The entire country is saying, "That's the style!"

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction without starvation diet or burdensome exercise, often at a very rapid rate and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of all of the troublesome symptoms which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of over-stoutness, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of superfluous fat. If you are over-stout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

In England, Henry Alexander waded that he could drive his new Ford car up the bridge path of Ben Nevis, highest mountain in Great Britain.

THE car would never make it and would probably fall over the edge, said the British, so they sent up a pack horse with lunch strapped to its back.

Britishers dislike to miss their lunch.

The car reached the top. As for the poor horse the London Sphere reports its fate thus:

"A horse carrying provisions for the party slipped over the edge of a steep incline and fell to its death in the glen, hundreds of feet below."

asked to at once begin a series of cottage prayer services to be held in conjunction with those by all the co-operating units preceding and during the campaign.

These, under the direction of the Rev. F. A. Dean, D. D., pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, are to begin next Tuesday at 7:30 o'clock.

One hundred secretaries are being named by Fred A. Smith, of the First Methodist Protestant church. He will give them directions during the week preceding the revival.

Enlisting Personal Workers.

Personal workers are being procured from the co-operating churches by the Rev. J. H. Lawther, and a committee of which he is the chairman. "Again I urge that the various pastors send me a list of such from their congregations," he said. "These names must be submitted at the earliest moment so they may be made acquainted with the duties they are to perform."

The Rev. Mr. Baker announced plans for visitations to nearby points in the interest of the revival. He will visit many of these places early next week.

"I have been asked by Beaver Falls, Pa., residents to acquaint them with the time of the Sunday meetings," the Rev. A. H. O'Brien, the campaign secretary announced. "From many sections the purpose of attending the revival is being made known."

It was also pointed that Prof. Hugh F. Laughlin, supervisor of music in the city schools, performed the preliminary organization for the McKeesport, Pa., choir following the 1912 revival here. With Albert Peterson, the Sunday advance man, he will do the same for the present revival. His knowledge of the methods utilized by Homer Rochester, it was suggested, makes fitting the work now being done by him.

Members of the campaign finance committee of which Charles Bowman is the chairman held a brief session at the outset of the executive committee meeting.

The meeting was presided over by the Rev. L. J. Davison, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church.

The invocation was made by the Rev. Dr. W. O. Hawkins of the First Methodist Episcopal church and the concluding prayers by Isaac Beardmore of the Second Presbyterian and Herman Pickens of the First Baptist churches.

literally falling away," the report says.

Urges Citizens to Investigate.

"This jail serves the purpose of only exhibiting about everything a jail should not be and violates the state code and regulations in many ways," is the comment of the investigator regarding city hall.

The report urges that "citizens" visit the city hall and fire station before election and "know for themselves" conditions existing in the two municipal structures.

Two organizations, both war veterans' posts, have endorsed the proposed bond issues and other organizations are expected to give their approval to the projects.

Text of Report

Griffin's report to Judge Hanley, copy of which has been received by Mayor Ralph C. Benedum, follows:

"Following a recent inspection of the East Liverpool city hall and attendant inspection of the City Hall and Central fire station, there is only one possible recommendation for this division to make; namely a recommendation for submission of bonds to vote of the people of East Liverpool for new buildings which will include a suitable city hall.

"Both the city hall and Central fire station have become so decayed, insanitary and inflammable that a recommendation for improvements and repairs would be most impracticable.

"The city hall and jail which were built in 1876 are not only badly located and arranged for their purposes, but have reached such a state of decay and disintegration that they are a constant menace to health and safety.

"The jail proper is so cramped and awkwardly arranged that it is not possible to maintain it in an orderly manner. The seamed and cracked floors and walls provide perfect refuge for vermin and we were not surprised to find prisoners sleeping on top of cells rather than in them, one of the sure signs of a poorly ventilated vermin infested jail.

"The men's quarters are bad enough, but the women's quarters are much worse for, in addition to insanitary conditions, the corridors are so small and insecure that women prisoners must be locked in their narrow, poorly ventilated and lighted cell and thus deprived of all opportunity for exercise or escape from the terrors of the cell such as the men enjoy.

"The odoriferous wood floors of the city hall resulting from decay and saturation also provide a constant fire menace to locked-in prisoners.

"This jail serves the purpose only of exhibiting about everything a jail should not be and violates the state code and regulations in many ways.

Fire Station "Decrepit"

"The Central fire station is built entirely of wood which has become so decayed that portions of the building are literally falling away.

"Here we have the anomaly of a building to house fire fighters which is itself a fire trap of the worst possible character and a plain threat to all surrounding buildings.

"We found in this decrepit building a blind or unventilated toilet room on the second floor which we were informed is the only toilet room in the city of East Liverpool which is provided for use of the general public.

"This toilet violates every provision in the code for floors and ventilation. "We have always maintained that condemnation proceedings were unnecessary in an enlightened community.

"In other affairs East Liverpool seems to be enlightened so we conclude that the public has not been fully informed and we hope that sometime before election the citizens will personally visit these buildings and know for themselves."

Yours truly,

Social Investigator.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 19.—About $100 was obtained by two masked bandits who held up Muhlman's pharmacy in the East End here last night, a check-up revealed today. The gunmen forced Otto Muhlman, proprietor into the rear of the store and looted the money drawers.

FRIEND SHOTS OHIOAN IN "JOKE"

KENTON, O., Oct. 18.—Because of what his friends considered a "joke" Perle Wentz, 18, today is suffering from gunshot wounds in his arms, forehead and hands.

"I dare you to shoot at him," Charles Downs, 17, Negro, is said to have mischievously remarked to Earl Simpson, 14, as Wentz started cranking his automobile preparatory to starting home from a hunting trip the three boys had taken.

"Well, I double-dare you then," Simpson retorted.

Downs couldn't stand a "double-dare" so he threw his shotgun to his shoulder and fired, it is said, and Wentz fell to the ground, writhing in pain.

Name Warden in Affidavit.

LOGAN, O., Oct. 19.—An affidavit charging that H. C. Blosser, deputy warden in charge of the Junction City penitentiary, where 17 prisoners lost their lives early Monday, was drunk on the streets of Logan Saturday night, was issued here today by Mayor J. P. Rochester, and officers from Hocking county and Perry county are enroute to Junction City to arrest Blosser. It was reported here this afternoon.

According to the men who swore to the affidavit, Blosser, was taken into custody here Saturday night, because of his drunken condition, but was released because of the pleas of a woman companion who promised to take the man back to Junction City.

Wilce Picks New Backfield Quartet For Northwestern Game

Buckeye Eleven Set for First Conference Scrap

Coffee, Safem Lad, at Halfback; Kruskamp in Togs; Larkins Tea ms With All-American Raskowski on Tackles.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 10.—A new backfield combination picked by Coach Jack Wilce yesterday following the game with Wittenberg Saturday, was expected to continue its functioning as the offensive power of the Ohio State university eleven in the training practice today in preparation for the battle with Northwestern, the Buckeye squad's second foe of the season.

The new combination which will in all probability be seen in action against the purple eleven at Evanston next Saturday includes Bryon Eby, of Chillicothe, a veteran of two years, and Charles Coffee, of Salem, at halfback; Harold Kruskamp, of Wellston, a member of the 1926 grid squad at fullback and Allen Holman, of Fairfield, I., a sophomore, at quarterback.

In the new quartet are found three ball carriers, namely Eby, Coffee and Holman. Kruskamp is expected to be used largely for blocking.

With the exception of Kruskamp all of the members of the new offense drivers were in the lineup against the Lutherans. Kruskamp just recently recovered from a leg injury.

Ohio State's line for the game with Northwestern Saturday is not likely to undergo many changes from the one which started the first game of the season. Surina and Fessler will likely occupy the end positions; Raskowski and Larkins at tackles; Ujhelyi and Young at guards and Barratt at center.

Ujhelyi was the only member of the Ohio State squad to sustain any injuries of any serious nature in the opening game. He is now nursing a bruised arm.

While the Ohio State eleven is contesting strength with Northwestern, the Buckeye Reserves will meet the Ohio Wesleyan university reserve squad at Ohio stadium.

While Ohio State gridders are at Evanston, Ill., helping Northwestern pry off the Big Ten conference lid, several Ohio colleges will perform a similar uncorking act for the Ohio conference, the Buckeye conference, and the Northwestern conference.

Since Ohio Wesleyan's 177 flukeless victory over Michigan last Saturday, the Bishops have annexed the Buckeye Athletic Association's place of honor and are expected to do dire things to Babcock's alleged Bearcats at the University of Cincinnati field.

Ohio's two "big red" teams, Miami and Denison, will hold their annual tilt, to see whose colors will run, in indications are that Denison's features will "fade a little," if not more.

Ernie Godfrey's Lutherans will star at home Saturday and welcome Ohio university mailers from Athens, for their first tilt in the Buckeye exclusive circle.

Of the conference games, Muskingum at Capital looks like a chance for any sport to get his money's worth. Capital is having its first fling in the conference and looks oodles better than last year. Muskingum this year inherited the "rep" of last year's squad, but so far hasn't shown the zip of yesterday.

And if you live in Northwestern Ohio and like your football frenzied and furious, drop in at Bluffton, where Bowling Green Normal and Bluffton will start their Northwestern season. Little Bluffton beat the Wood county normal boys by one touchdown a year ago. This year Bluffton won from Capital, 20-0, and Bowling Green trounced Ohio Northern 7-0. Ohio Northern and Bluffton finished 13 all in the season opener this year.

Dayton university flyers go to Providence R. I., to tangle with Brown university, long a stumbling block for more than one big eastern outfit.

Kent of the conference visits Defiance of the Northwestern "Little five."

Western Reserve vs Baldwin Wallace at Berea, Mt. Union vs Case at Cleveland, Otterbein vs Kenyon at Gambier; Wooster vs Oberlin at Oberlin, and Akron vs Hiram at Hiram, are the other conference games for Saturday.

The Wilmington Quakers look like the short end bet for the Ashland clash at Ashland and the same may be prognosticated for Kent State when it travels to Defiance, another big team of the "Little Five."

John Carroll plays at Grove City, Pa.; Toledo is host to Mt. Pleasant, Mich. Teachers, and Cedarville looks like second best against Rio Grande, in the other Ohio college football game.

Because of the cheapness of labor in Kashmir State, India, a cart may be pulled more cheaply by a half-dozen men than by a pair of horses or oxen.

The Royal Air Force Flying School at Wittering, England, has not had a fatal crash of planes since June, 1927.

Mt. Union, Case Meet Saturday In Annual Tilt

Purple Opens Conference Card With Cleveland Team.

ALLIANCE, O., Oct. 10.—For fifteen years Case of Cleveland and Mount Union college have met in a traditional gridiron game on the Alliance field. Again this year the tradition of the game will be held to with the exception that the setting will be laid in the "Fifth city."

Mount Union will open its Ohio Conference schedule against Case. Two reverses, one to Allegheny and one to Michigan, have been administered the Purple eleven thus far this season, and should Mount lose Saturday to Case, it will be the first time that any Thorpe coached team has dropped three in a row.

Mount holds a slight edge in the number of games won in the Case series. The "Brown" team has triumphed seven times to the "Purple's" eight. An interesting fact is that not a single game has ended in a tie during that period.

Ohio Wesleyan To Get Hard Workout Today

Bishops to Renew Relations With Cincinnati Eleven.

DELAWARE, O., Oct. 10.—Faced with two games this week-end with Cincinnati university's first team and Ohio State university's Reserves, Ohio Wesleyan gridders on Wednesday afternoon will be put through a long scrimmage session by Coach George Gauthier.

The team emerged from its 17 to 7 victory over Michigan last week in good shape and unless casualties occur in this week's practices both the varsity and reserve elevens should be in good condition for Saturday's games.

Gauthier's biggest battle this week is in attempting to avert a slump that so often wrecks teams after they have downed formidable opponents as Wesleyan did last week against Michigan. In practice sessions thus far the players seem to be unimpaired of their Wolverine-taming feat and Gauthier hopes they will keep in that mood.

Saturday's tilt with Cincinnati will mark the first appearance of the Bearcats on Ohio Wesleyan's grid schedule since the Bishops' championship year in 1922. At that time the Methodists downed the Queen City eleven, 14 to 7, at Cincinnati. The game also will be Ohio Wesleyan's first Buckeye Intercollegiate Athletic Association tackle of the season.

The reserves' game with Ohio State's second will be played in the Ohio stadium and will be the first of a four-game schedule to be played by the Bishop seconds.

Gauthier Tuesday sent his squad through a long drill in which he stressed passing, punting and place-kicking. Pass, punt and line scrimmage concluded the workout.

Makers of History-Intolerant of Tradition

The Reo Flying Cloud has made motoring history. It proved that a car could be beautiful, enduring, swift, powerful, economical and comfortable. It made possible the purchase of all the desirable qualities of motoring in one car. It lived up to the idea behind it, "A Reo must do all things well."

The Reo Flying Cloud has made history because back of it stands a group of men intolerant of tradition, unhampered by the inheritance of mechanical features that must be preserved, given free reign to develop or to acquire whatever might be essential to making an ideal automobile for America.

From road to roof, from stem to stern, the Reo Flying

Cloud is a skillful blending of all that is best in modern engineering practice and modern design.

For brakes, it has the best the world affords for motor cars. Its engine retains no obsolete practices. Its steering ease and safety are unsurpassed. So on throughout its construction in every part.

To the Flying Cloud's far-in-the-lead design, to the finer materials of which it is built, are added a carefulness and precision of workmanship usually considered unnecessary in its price class.

There is a Reo Flying Cloud near you. Try it out. Learn the pleasure of driving a car which does all things well.

Clouting of these Two Baseball Superhumans May Never be Equalled

Together They Get 16 Hits in 26 Times at Bat; Babe Scores Nine Runs; Lou Bats Nine in Seven Homers Between Them.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 10.—They have insisted these many years that baseball is strictly a team game and everybody has accepted this as dogma. But the New York Yankees, spreading eastward today with their second world championship in consecutive games, probably realize that this is not always so. If there is any lingering doubt, however, it might be well to take the matter up directly with that final and ultimate authority on this question, the St. Louis Cardinals. They know, to their everlasting regret, of at least one instance in which it was anything but so.

The Cardinals, winners of second money yesterday at the conclusion of a world series that was as one-sided as a district attorney's plea to the jury,

WHAT IF BABE, LOU HADN'T PLAYED?

ONCE we thought Crawford and Cobb and later Heilmann, or Veach and Cobb were remarkable combinations. Collins and Baker of the old Athletics, were extraordinarily good, too, and so were Schulte and Chance, of the old Cubs, but one simply thought of these as great pairs of the moment. It is only with Ruth and Gehrig that the idea becomes fixed that never again will we see their like.

The Yankees used approximately seventeen men officially in this four-game set with an all but prostrate rival, yet it wasn't until yesterday that the club, in toto, furnished the slightest aid. Paschal got a few hits and fewer of them counted. Koenig hit well enough but his didn't figure seriously, either. Lazzeri didn't hit at all until the fourth game yesterday and Meusel's punch was spasmodic, although he did supply the winning punch with a homer in the first game.

CARD HURLERS MIGHT HAVE WON ONE

SUCH has been written about the pitching of Hoyt, Pipgras and Zachary in winning four games for an average of 2 1/2 runs a game. Good pitching, admittedly, or weak hitting by the Cards, or both, but at least in several instances it isn't likely that pitching alone would have prevailed without the inspiring cannonade of the pious pair. And you can work this argument two ways by pointing out that the successive failures of Sherdel, Alexander and Haines might have shown a success or two if this all-powerful duo wasn't in the series. In the analysis, of course, the Cardinals turned out to be just a baseball club that happened to outlast its contenders in the drive for the wire. The scores and the way they were achieved clearly proved that the Cards, as a ball club, were outclassed. But were they outclassed nine positions for nine? Not exactly, although in some positions this undoubtedly was the case. The outclassing was done by the ball club only because the ball club happened to have two super stars.

They did nearly all the scoring, nearly all the hitting and absolutely all the record breaking in a series in which records were so much fluff to be blown off the premises at will. Ruth's batting average of .825 was a record, easily eclipsing Hank Gowdy's mark of .545 which had stood the test of competition since the 1914 series. Ruth's nine runs constituted a record. So did Gehrig's total of nine runs batted in. The Babe also tied Joe Harris' total base record of 22 made in the 1925 series. But even here a tie was worth a victory since Ruth amassed his in four games while Harris' came at the end of seven games. Yes this 1928 event probably will go down in the books as a joke series but it took Ruth and Gehrig to inject

WASH-JEFF PLAYS LAST HOME GAME

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 10.—At least two special trains will bring Duquesne university followers for the closing game of Wash-Jeff's home football season next Saturday. In addition to the many hundreds who will come by train many scores of others will come by automobile and other means of transportation. Manager Holahan has taken 3,000 tickets for the Duquesne student body and rooters and he expects to dispose of all of them.

The game is the "homecoming" contest for the Presidents and, inasmuch, as it will be the final appearance of the Red and Black before taking the road, an unusual turnout

Romance in New York

CHAPTER 24.

But the man climbing the stairs behind her did not turn into a room on that floor either.

"This is ridiculous," Sally told herself. "Why did I run like that?"

She knew it wasn't Jerry who was behind her now, but the thought that she was in Jerry's house made her happy and unhappy at the same time.

All at once the footsteps behind her slackened on a landing. A key clicked in a door, and this presently slammed. Sally stood, her hands on the banisters, looking down through the mark of the hallway. She was breathing hard.

From the farther end of the corridor where she now stood, a light gleamed from the chink of a door that was not tightly closed. As Sally stole towards the head of the stairs, a low sound came to her ears, a faint, fearful sound too quiet to be called a moan. And then suddenly in a kind of whisper she heard her name.

She felt suddenly sick and dizzy. For a moment her head whirled. Then the whispering went on, disjointedly, with little broken murmurs.

She turned, and feeling her way along the wall, came to the door. She did not need to listen any more. She knew before she had pushed the door open that Jerry was lying there, sick, delirious.

Inside the narrow room she looked around with dismay. The battered Morris chair, the table piled with tobacco jars, papers, odds and ends, the confusion of things on the floor, the narrow cot by the window where a sick boy lay, tossing restlessly, his eyes burning with his fever. They fell on her, but unseeing.

For a moment the pity of it struck her helpless. Only in New York could a thing like this happen, could a man shaken and be uncared for until someone, a friend or a casual, stumbled in on him.

She remembered now how Jerry had spoken of the fever that had wasted him once in South America.

"I have to be careful even now. I've had little attacks—they're pretty bad, I guess. I got out of my head, you see. Quinine helps some. And if I ever get another real attack of that fever again well—" He had grinned cheerfully, with the cheerfulness that refused to regard even death with dread.

Sally was on her knees by the cot, her cool fingers on his forehead.

"That's better," he muttered. "Much better. Tell the foreman I want to see him. And there's Carlos Rodriguez—you can tell him—tell him—" His voice became inarticulate. He was living over again days of struggle in the heat of the tropics at Adrian Martin's mine.

Sally's weariness left her, as if she could never be weary again. She did not think now. It wasn't necessary to think. What she must do was so plain. He didn't recognize her. While he was like this she could care for him, watch over him. He would never know—never find out. But this—she would have this to remember.

She moved softly and swiftly around the disordered room, picking up things, freshening everything, throwing open the window, trying to straighten out the comfortable that covered Jerry's twitching body.

That was done in five minutes. In another five she was ringing a door bell frantically.

"It's after Doctor's office hours. No, you can't see him, I tell you. He won't be disturbed now."

But Sally gritted her teeth. "I've got to see him. I'm going to see him."

A middle-aged man came out into the hallway. An irritable, kindly face.

"What is it?"

"I've been trying to send her away sir, but she—" "Please, come with me!" Sally pleaded. "He may die—you've got to come. You're nearest!"

He was putting on his coat with a "There, there! We'll see about that."

Back in the room, he was looking at Jerry, bending over him, finger on pulse, asking Sally questions.

"These tropical fevers—no one understands them—but he's young, strong, he'll pull through with any care at all. No food for a day or two, and you can fill this prescription. You can let me know if you need me again."

It was dark outside now. Sally hurried homewards. She threw some things hastily into a bag. None of the girls had come in yet.

On the back of a laundry slip she wrote: "Forgive me, but something terrible has happened, so that I can't go on as I promised. I'll be back as soon as I can. This sounds wild and mysterious, but I can't explain now. I love you all—Sally."

Then she was on her way down town again, stopping to pick up the filled prescription and spending the rest of her money recklessly on some flowers.

When she got in this time, Jerry was sleeping. She sat down in the Morris chair, watching him as he breathed. Now and then his lips moved. His face looked thin and drawn and pitiful.

Sally's eyes came into her eyes. "Don't let him die!" she prayed. "Oh, don't let him die!"

It grew late, but she did not move, watching by his bedside. It must have been midnight when he started up. His voice was dry and husky.

"Pedro! Pedro, get me the water dipper. You—you—" Her arms were around his shoulders. He struggled feebly. He seemed as weak as a small child.

"Jerry, Jerry darling, it's all right, it's all right!" It was wonderful to be able to whisper that to him even though he could not hear.

She brought a glass of water, and put it to his lips. He swallowed only a drop, and fell back exhausted again. She put her fingers on his forehead and throat, and pushed his thick hair back, and it seemed to make him quieter.

And then she talked to him, telling him that she loved him, in a low voice, over and over. She had not slept. The room was cold. Hunting, she found another blanket and put it over him. He turned and twisted, so that it fell to the floor, and patiently she replaced it.

He was talking in little mutters that she could scarcely make out. Once or twice she heard her name. What was it he was saying? In a homeless chaos, he was crowding together thoughts and memories and wishes, in one second living again in South America, in another back in Newport on his dingy boat.

Why, the water's not cold, Sally!" he said once. "Come on!"

Then he shivered and laughed. Sally looked around her. If she only had a hot water bag! These alternate burnings and chills—there must be something that would help. She'd buy a hot water bag anyway. Buy—how could she? Not a penny in her purse. Well, she would pawn the mesh bag. It was silver. She'd go out as soon as the places were open.

With the light Jerry fell into an uneasy sleep again. Sally went down the stairs. On the lower floor a door snapped open, and a fat, red-faced woman stepped out into the corridor.

"Where are you coming from?" she demanded. "From—Mr. Evesham's room," Sally faltered. "Well, you got a nerve with you all right. This place is respectable—and you can get out and stay out. You don't understand," said Sally. "He's sick. I'm trying to take care of him."

"Yes, and you're his aunt, ain't you? There's the door!"

Sally knew the red-faced woman would lock it behind her.

"I'm not going," she said quietly.

"Oh, you're not?" The red-faced woman looked at her slowly and smiled to herself. "We'll see about that. I'll have a cop put you out! And right now."

She brushed past Sally, and stepped out into the street.

Sally went upstairs again slowly. She opened the door of Jerry's room, and sat down, waiting, frightened.
